

COVID-19 Border Closures Summary

Breaking Down the Different State & Territory Border Closures

---

With the different border closures around the country, we investigated to see if they affected deliveries for our industry. Currently the Northern Territory, Queensland, South Australia, Tasmania and Western Australia have closed their borders.

Even though freight and logistics are exempt from these border closures, each state and territory have different regulations regarding their respective border closures.

The Northern Territory require you to apply for exemption and prove your status as an essential traveller.

Western Australia require you to fill out an arrival form, however, you can apply for Special Exemption status from the Responsible Officer who hands you this form.

We recommend you view the relevant links below that go into further detail of each state and territory's border closures.

At this stage, NSW & VIC have not closed their borders.
